Conference On Jewish Material Claims Against Germany Allocates Over $10 Million To Aid Refugees And Jewish Communities Ravaged By Nazis; Warns Funds To End In Four Years

A budget of $10,102,154 for 1961, earmarked for programs of relief, rehabilitation, and cultural and educational reconstruction in thirty countries around the world, was presented by Jacob Blaustein, of Baltimore, Maryland, senior vice-president of the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany, at the annual allocations session of its board of directors in New York. Over 150,000 victims of Nazism are expected to benefit from the funds. The allocations will raise to $80,000,000, in all, the sums granted by the Conference since 1954.

In presenting the budget, Mr. Blaustein sounded a warning that Conference funds are scheduled to end in four years, and that Jewish communities and central welfare organizations relying upon its grants "will be called upon to shoulder, in ever growing measure, the costs of aid programs for Nazi victims" The budget of $10,102,154, Mr. Blaustein stated, contained two major components: $7,789,617 for relief, rehabilitation, and resettlement projects; and $1,904,037 for cultural and educational reconstruction.

"Some 400 Jewish organizations have applied for grants this year calling for more than $20,000,000, all told, over twice the sum available for allocation," Mr. Blaustein said. "Confronting those great demands is the inescapable fact that our funds are limited to some $10,000,000 per year and cannot be increased."

The Claims Conference, made up of 23 national and world-wide Jewish organizations, obtains its funds for allocation under the special agreement it reached with the German Federal Government in 1952. By that agreement, $107,000,000 is being turned over to the Conference, in twelve annual installments, for the benefit of needy Nazi victims throughout the world.

Over three-fourths of the entire budget, coming to $7,789,617, is ear-marked for relief and rehabilitation programs. About 90 per cent of those funds will be spent in Europe by Jewish communal and central welfare agencies and the American Joint Distribution Committee. Needs are most urgent in Europe, especially for the aged, the ill, and the handicapped. Conference funds will also aid in the emigration of Nazi victims from that continent and their resettlement overseas, most notably in Australia and South America.

Specifically, Conference grants are going for cash relief, medical aid, care of the aged and infirm, child and youth care, emigration and resettlement aid, vocational training, rehabilitation loan funds, and for capital projects linked to the reconstruction of the Jewish communities.

Allocations of $1,004,037 will aid five major programs in Jewish cultural and educational reconstruction, Mr. Blaustein stated. They include education, research and publication, scholarships and fellowships, upkeep of rabbinical schools and the commemoration and documentation of the era of Nazi persecution. The programs are addressed to the reconstruction of Jewish institutions and of spiritual and cultural centers ravaged at Nazi hands, and to the rehabilitation of scholars, editors, writers, and teachers who are Nazi victims.

Jewish education, primary, secondary, higher, and adult, the largest and most far-ranging of the programs in this area, will receive allocations of $1,032,000. Allocations have climbed year by year to reach an eight-year peak in 1961, institutions in Europe making up the foremost group of beneficiaries. Nearly three-quarters of the outlays are scheduled for primary and secondary schools, and capital grants to enlarge their facilities will reach record proportions in 1961.

Mr. Blaustein pointed out that besides the direct grants for cultural and educational reconstruction, the budget for relief and rehabilitation includes grants of about $400,000 to aid traditional educational and religious activities of communal organizations in Europe. Other allocations in that budget will aid in the creation of community and youth centers, and in the upkeep of summer camps and kindergartens not connected with schools, where Jewish cultural and educational activities will play a featured role.

Allocations for capital projects are playing a life-renewing role in the rebuilding of Jewish communities that suffered at Nazi hands, Mr. Blaustein pointed out. The 1961 grants, cutting across programs for relief and rehabilitation and cultural and educational reconstruction, reached a record sum of $1,400,000. The funds will go for the construction, expansion, equipment, and repair of over 120 homes for the aged, children's and youth homes, hospitals and clinics, community and youth centers, schools, kindergartens, summer camps, religious institutions and related undertakings. Since allocations began in 1954, the Conference has extended about $8,500,000 in capital grants. Schools, community and youth centers, and homes for the aged have absorbed nearly 75 per cent of those funds. The great bulk of the capital grants is going to European countries and a limited share to overseas lands sheltering many Nazi victims.

Urgent appeals to the German and Austrian Governments for an early agreement on compensation measures for victims of Nazi persecution in and from Austria, were sounded at the annual meeting of the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany and of the Committee for Jewish Claims on Austria.

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the two organizations, voiced his deep distress that Nazi victims from Austria, in the tens of thousands, have already waited over two decades for the enactment of legislation providing modest benefits in compensation for brutal persecutions at Nazi hands, and for the loss of their possessions and livelihoods. "It is highest time for the two governments to complete their negotiations on the size of financial contributions going to an Austrian program for the benefit of Nazi victims," Dr. Goldmann declared. "The new program would come too late for many, even if it entered into effect tomorrow, since considerable numbers of aged refugees from Austria have gone to their graves in recent years without getting a single shilling in compensation."

The Claims Conference session was attended by over forty Jewish leaders from North and South America, Europe, Australia, and South Africa, representing the 23 national and world-wide Jewish member organizations of the Claims Conference. Dr. Goldmann outlined a broad review of recent developments in the field of German indemnification and restitution. He expressed gratification that deliveries of goods, materials, and services, under the terms of the Bonn-Israel reparations pact of 1952, to which the Conference is a party, were continuing to move at a smooth pace. All told, over $589,285,000 in capital goods, materials and services were delivered to Israel from Germany since payments started on June 30, 1953.

Dr. Goldmann pointed out that reparations deliveries have played a noteworthy role in the development of the Israeli economy. About one-third of all the capital goods purchased by Israel since 1953 were delivered under the reparations agreement. That agreement has called for deliveries to Israel valued at $822,000,000 over a span of 12 to 14 years. Over that period, the Conference is to receive the sum of $107,000,000, as its share of the overall amount, to go for the relief, rehabilitation, and resettlement of Nazi victims.

In his report, Dr. Goldmann pointed out that the German program for the indemnification of Nazi victims involved a primary responsibility assigned to the Conference under the terms of the agreement it reached with the Bonn Government in 1952. Dr. Goldmann welcomed recent accelerations in the pace of adjudications in a number of German states, and the sincere concern shown by responsible German officials for improving the implementation of the program.

Payments to individual Nazi victims by the German Government reached $2,077,000,000, all told, by September 30, 1960. But the record must be weighed against the fact that only one-half of the sums estimated to be due have been paid so far over the course of a decade, while the German Federal Indemnification Law calls for the completion of the program by the end of 1962. Dr. Goldmann announced that in discussions just completed with top ranking German officials, the Conference had submitted specific proposals calling for further speed ups in the tempo of adjudication and for more liberal interpretations of the Law.

"Among the gravest problems impeding the completion of the indemnification program are the claims for damage to health," Dr. Goldmann stated. "Over 218,000

Was Noted And Honored As Gifted Forester

Jacob Joshua Levison, landscape architect, and former chief forester for the City of New York, died in New York Hospital, after a long illness. His age was 78 years. He maintained homes at 170 East Seventy-seventh Street and Sea Cliff, L.I.

Mr. Levison, who was born in Riga, Latvia, and was brought to the U.S. at the age of eight years, was reared on Manhattan's lower East Side. He became one of the small group of crusading forest conservationists who organized the United States Forest Service under President Theodore Roosevelt, says the New York Times. He was the creator of many of the North Shore's beautiful estate grounds.

Mr. Levison was honored in 1955 by the United States Forest Service with a "charter membership" for his work, "which helped lay the foundation of American forestry." He retained an active interest in the Forest Service from the days of its organization in 1905.

Besides his contributions as landscape architect to private estates Mr. Levison did much to beautify the city. Among the city parks and garden projects with which he was associated were the Cloisters, the John Pierpoint Morgan Library garden, the Metropolitan Museum of Art gardens, and Tudor City.

A forestry specialist in New York City might seem as anomalous as a city planner in the jungle, yet Mr. Levison found many unlikely spots among the steel and concrete where trees and foliage could be planted.

One example of his work was a two-acre "garden on stilts" planted on the roof of a 400-car garage separating the twin Coliseum Park apartments west

U. N. Aide Disputes Israeli View On Arab Refugees

A high United Nations official defended at Geneva the record of the Arab governments in dealing with the problem of the Arab refugees of the 1948 war in Palestine. Dr. John H. Davis, director of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees, said that the Arab countries harboring the refugees had been "sympathetic and generous."

Dr. Davis, speaking at a conference of specialists in refugee work, attacked as a "misconception" the idea that the problem could have been settled except for the "conniving of unprincipled Arab politicians", says the New York Times. The position taken by Israeli spokesmen often has been that the problem is based on the refusal of Arab countries to give permanent status to the refugees.

The attitude of Arab leaders, Dr. Davis said, is based on a refusal to accept Israel as a "permanent component" of the Middle East. He declared that this attitude was held by "virtually all of the Arab people."

The root of the problem lies in the "basic feelings" of Arabs and Israelis, he added. But even if there were a political settlement between the Arab and Israelis, he went on, the problem of the refugees would remain because the majority of them are too old, too ill, or too unskilled to obtain employment.

Dr. Davis, a United States citizen, also criticized the idea that the problem could be settled by applying pressure to the Arab states and showing impatience with them. He said that he had noted no impatience at the lack of observance of the United Nations resolution demanding that refugees should be allowed to return to their homes and receive compen-

A.J.C. Leader Calls For Merger Of Zionist And Other Groups

Dr. Joachim Prinz, president of the American Jewish Congress, proposed a round-table conference of Jewish leaders to plan a new, mass movement that would express what he termed "the American Jewish credo." He said the great majority of U.S. Jews shared these beliefs but had found no unified way of translating them into effective action:

1) Jewish survival is inseparably linked with the growth of democracy, equality, and human welfare. 2) A vital link with Israel is needed not only because it is a haven for refugees and a bastion of democracy in the Middle East but because it constitutes the "keystone in the arch of Jewish survival." 3) Jews are a people, sharing common values, common hopes, and common problems; the cultural and spiritual heritage of this people must be preserved and fostered to enrich both Jewish life and American and world culture.

The American Jewish Congress leader called for the merger of "all groups that subscribe to this American Jewish credo into a single and comprehensive mass movement." Such a movement could be launched, he said, by a consolidation of the memberships and facilities of the bodies that share these views, including Zionist organizations. Dr. Prinz, who spoke at a press conference in Stephen Wise Congress House, 15 East 84th Street, New York, emphasized that he was speaking as an individual and not in the name of the American Jewish Congress. He pointed out, however, that his position was consistent with the viewpoints expressed by leaders of his organization since the establishment of Israel in 1948. Dr. Prinz cited a series of public speeches and articles calling for consolidation of Zionist and like-minded groups by himself and by the late David Petegorsky, executive director of the American Jewish Congress, as far back as 1948 and 1949.

Noting also that he had expressed similar sentiments in a major address he delivered at the fortieth anniversary meeting of the American Jewish Congress in Philadelphia two years ago, Dr. Prinz said that many thinking leaders of the Zionist organizations were concerned with finding a "mooring place" for Zionism in the post-Israel era. He pointed out that at a meeting of the World Confederation of General Zionists in Tel-Aviv, the American Zionist leader, Emanuel Neumann, had suggested a merger of the world Zionist movement and the World Jewish Congress.

Dr. Prinz cautioned that "personal and organizational vanities will have to be put aside in the effort to create a unified instrument of the American Jewish community." But he warned that "only in this way will it be possible to develop the will, the vitality and the means necessary to assure the creative survival of the Jewish people and to forge meaningful links with Israel."

JEWISH HOLIDAY OF PURIM RECALLS DEFEAT OF HAMAN, AN ANCIENT HITLER

The defeat of Haman, an ancient forerunner of Hitler, will be celebrated in synagogues and homes throughout the world with the advent of the holiday of Purim at sundown, March 1. As told in the Biblical Book of Esther, the Purim story deals with the attempt of Haman, vizier of Persia, to have all men bow down to him. All complied except Mordecai, whose faith forbade him to kneel to anyone but Almighty God.

Hailed as a perfect short story, the Scriptural narrative tells how Esther, cousin of Mordecai, is elevated to the queenship in a beauty contest and intervenes with King Ahasuerus to save her people threatened with annihilation by the despotic Haman. Purim is celebrated by special worship services which stress religious liberty. The theme is also stressed in the liturgy and the music of the day. During the service the Book of Esther is read from the Megillah (scroll). The holiday is also marked by gift-giving, mock beauty contests, costume balls, bazaars, and dramatizations of the story.

The holiday lasts one day. It is not regarded as a major festival calling for abstention from work or public school. The word "Purim" is Hebrew for "lots", referring to the manner in which Haman decided by drawing lots the day on which he had hoped to destroy the Jews.

Jewish Festival Of Purim Is On March 2

The Jewish Festival of Purim which falls on March 2, the 14th day of the Hebrew month of Adar, celebrates a woman. The heroine is Queen Esther through whose courageous efforts the Persian Jews were saved from total annihilation. Today, more than 2,000 years later, this symbolic victory of human freedom still is celebrated by Jewish families in a spirit of revelry with masquerading, Queen Esther Balls, parades, and feasting.

Each mention of the villain's name in the reading of the Book of Esther prompts children to twirl their noisemakers, pound their kettles, or just hiss their disapproval. The story of Purim as recorded in the Megillah, or Book of Esther, relates how in the days of King Ahasuerus his vain and vindictive prime minister, Haman, developed an intense hatred of the Jews because one of them, Mordecai, refused to pay him homage. Haman plotted to have Mordecai hanged and, by casting lots (pur) set the day on which the whole Jewish population was to be destroyed.

Esther, the Queen of Ahasuerus, and the niece of Mordecai, intervened on behalf of her uncle and her people, revealing the vicious plot to the king. She inspired the king's gratitude toward her people by narrating a story of how Mordecai had once saved the king's life. Whereupon, Ahasuerus delivered the Jews from the hatred of their enemies and ordered Haman to be hanged on the very gallows he had prepared for Mordecai.

This vivid story has made it one of the most popular of the books of the Bible, especially among children. It has inspired artists throughout the centuries to embellish the scrolls with exquisitely painted illuminations and illustrations, the latter being used not only for decorative purposes but as a means of educating the very young. One of the largest and most diverse collections of Megillot is housed in the Library of The Jewish Theological Seminary of America in New York. Among the scrolls are sizes ranging from 18 inches wide to one, and one-half inch in width. The whole scroll is frequently encased in an artistically wrought silver sheath.

Food plays an important role in the Purim festivities. Gifts that are exchanged as well as gifts to the poor customarily include various types of food. In the home the holiday is celebrated by partaking of a special Seudah or Purim feast, providing the housewife with unbounded opportunities to demonstrate her culinary talents.

Like all holidays and festivals in the Hebrew calendar, Purim has its special foods. A large white braided loaf, or challah, is baked especially for the occasion. But chief among the special delicacies and one that transcends cultural differences in Purim culinary art is a three-cornered pastry called hamantaschen. These can be filled with poppy seeds, honey, nuts or fruit, and are triangular in form, reminiscent of the shape of Haman's hat. Or the treat of the day for children may be little Hamans, gingerbread men, as is the custom in the Netherlands. Babbelech, salted beans in their jackets, is another symbolic dish. These are eaten on Purim, according to tradition to symbolize Esther's abstinence from meat while living in the court, in keeping with the Jewish dietary laws. Starting usually in late afternoon, the feast proceeds at a leisurely pace, with songs, games and dancing.

The above was prepared by the Jewish Theological Seminary.

Purim, Feast Of Lots, Begins At Sundown, March 1

Purim, the Feast of Lots, one of the two most joyous of Jewish festivals, begins this year at sunset, March 1. The holiday commemorates an episode in ancient Persia when the Jewish people narrowly escaped massacre at the hands of a despot, Haman. His plot to purge the Jews was foiled by the courageous intervention of Queen Esther, the Jewish wife of King Ahasuerus, and her foster-father, Mordecai.

The story of Purim is related in the Book of Esther, one of the most widely known books in the Bible. The word Purim means "lots," and the Bible recounts how lots were cast daily before Haman so that he could fix a day for the slaughter. The name "Haman" has forever been identified in Jewish history, and, indeed, in the literature of Western civilization, with cruel oppressors, evil despots, and dictatorships. Mordecai's refusal to prostrate himself before Haman is regarded as the symbol of free men's determination to defy tyrants.

Purim is a jubilant holiday, marked in the synagogue by songs, prayers of thanksgiving, and by the reading of the Book of Esther from a special scroll or "megillah". Children who flock to synagogues for the reading are invited to wave noise-makers and stamp their feet to drown out the dread name of "Haman", whenever it occurs in the text. Purim pageants, plays, masquerades, and balls underscore the joyful spirit of the holiday. Other important features of the celebration include the exchange of gifts, gifts to the poor, and festive dinners in Jewish homes.

Universal Purim themes at synagogue services are the need to combat bigotry, especially in recent manifestations such as the desecration of houses of worship. Purim ritual in the Union Prayerbook used in Reform congregations throughout the land reads: "Strengthen us to combat prejudice, injustice, and oppression when they strike not only against us but men of whatever race or belief. May we strive unceasingly for the triumph of truth and right over falsehood and wrong. Thus shall we be united in a true covenant of brotherhood and peace. Amen."

The only other holiday which rivals the merry-making mood of Purim in the Jewish calendar is Simchath Torah, occurring after the High Holy Days each fall. This holiday, meaning "Rejoicing in the Torah", marks the completion of the yearly cycle of readings of the Torah (the Five Books of Moses) in the synagogue, and the beginning of the new annual cycle.

solution of the Zionist movement which he made in a speech in Philadelphia, and his "full-fledged support" of the position expressed by Premier David Ben-Gurion in his address at the World Zionist Congress in Jerusalem last month. Dr. Prinz said a reading of the full text of the Prime Minister's speech revealed it to be a "masterful document" which provided a "blueprint for building a free, independent, and mutually beneficial relationship between Israel and the diaspora."

Discussing the role of Zionism today, Dr. Prinz declared: "The Zionist organization has rendered historic service to the Jewish people and to Jewish destiny. If I suggest the dissolution of the present structure of the Zionist movement in the United States, it is not because I believe that American Jewry has already discharged its responsibilities to Israel. It is rather because of my conviction that this structure is thwarting the full mobilization of American Jewish effort in that task. Every day of drifting is a day lost and a step backward in the effort to foster Jewish identification and strengthen American Jewry's ties with Israel," Dr. Prinz declared.

"In its time," he said, "the Zionist movement served an almost Messianic purpose. It created new political goals which imparted new hope, new meaning, and above all new dignity to the Jewish people. Zionism was also responsible for the creation of an international forum for the Jewish people, the political education of a new generation, the training of Zionists for responsible government and statehood and, finally, the creation of the Jewish state itself. Thus did the Zionist movement gloriously fulfill its aims.

"But it is evident that the Zionist organization no longer exerts any real influence in our communities; only the project-groups have retained a vitality," Dr. Prinz continued. "These agencies, such as Hadassah, direct their energies toward concrete projects for Israel and in this capacity continue to make an important contribution to the Jewish state. But it would be difficult to determine or even to define the particularly Zionist element of these groups."

Dr. Prinz said that a new and all-embracing movement was needed, "based on the realities of American life," to mobilize the interest and the energy of the younger Jewish generation. "Only a movement which takes into account the freedom under which Jews in the U.S. and other lands live can serve as the effective and democratic instrument for fostering Jewish belongingness, promoting Jewish culture, protecting Jewish security and establishing a productive and meaningful relationship with Israel as the crucial and essential factor in the creative survival of the Jewish people," he declared.

The American Jewish Congress president said he hoped other Jewish organizations would join in a round-table conference, "with no single agency sitting at the head", aimed at creating a mass movement that would represent the view of the majority of American Jews.

MONTREAL MARRIAGES

BRAND-MOSS

The marriage of Miss Beverly Joy Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moss, 2342 Ekers Avenue, to Allan Brand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brand, 5585 Glencrest Avenue, took place at the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, on February 12, at two o'clock. Dr. Solomon Frank, Rabbi, officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in white peau de soie, cut with a fitted bodice, and designed with a heart-shaped neckline, and long sleeves; and a full skirt, terminating in a long, chapel train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearl beads; and she carried a white prayer book, adorned with white orchids and white satin streamers. Miss Marlene Brand, sister of the groom, as maid of honour, wore a blue organza gown, having short sleeves, and a full skirt. She had a crown of matching material, and carried a cascade of white carnations. Mrs. Gerald Moss, sister-in-law of the bride; and Miss Shirley Green, as bridesmaids, were dressed in gold-coloured, peau de soie frocks. They had rhinestone tiaras; and carried semi-cascade bouquets of white carnations. Iris Unger, cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, was in a white and blue organza party dress; and had a nosegay of white carnations. Gerald Moss, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The ushers were: Robert Elman, Allen Scope, Robert Arick, Barry Filger, Lawrence White and Shelly Mintzberg. Pink and blue carnations, arranged with greenery, were the wedding flowers. Mrs. Moss, mother of the bride, was in a blue peau de soie and lace gown, having a scooped neckline, and short sleeves. Her hat was of matching material. Mrs. Brand, mother of the groom, wore a blue and white lace gown, having a scooped neckline, and short sleeves, and a bell-shaped skirt. She had a hat of matching colour. Both had corsages of mauve orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Brand spent their wedding trip in Miami Beach, Florida, the bride travelling in a two-piece, pale green suit; and a corsage of white carnations. They have taken up residence at 2342 Ekers Avenue.

ELLENBOGEN-FRIEND

The marriage of Miss Kathleen Friend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Friend, of New York, to Irving Ellenbogen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Ellenbogen, 4655 Draper Avenue, Montreal, took place in London, England.

of the Coliseum at Columbus Circle. The garden was planted in four layers of soil, going from gravel to bank fill to sand to loam, says the New York Herald Tribune. Trees forty feet tall were set in holes created by the garage roof beam system.

As a man who was brought up in the teeming lower East Side and who lived in or near New York City most of his life, Mr. Levison once explained his chosen profession by stating at the time he was honored:

"It was the sordidness of a treeless existence that caused me to choose forestry over other vocations. Then as now the esthetic aspects of trees appealed to me as much as the practical ones. By nature I had a philosophy of life that centered on a world of forestry."

In 1959 he was one of five City College alumni who received the twenty-sixth annual Townsend Harris Medals for achievement.

As a private landscape architect and arboriculturist, Mr. Levison developed the estates of Marshall Field Jr., Walter P. Chrysler, Otto Kahn, Benjamin Stern, A. G. Milbank, Francis Bailey, Francis P. Garvin, former Senator Herbert H. Lehman and many other titans of the business world who became meek and contented when they had a pair of pruning shears in their hands.

Mr. Levison found that city life agrees with few species of trees, and chose sycamores and elms, whose leathery, close-pored leaves are less easily clogged by soot, says the New York Times. Other trees he found adaptable to the grime were hawthorns, crabapples, magnolias, and two kinds of dogwood.

Mr. Levison attended the public schools in New York, was graduated from City College in 1902; and received a master's degree in forestry at Yale in 1905. He then joined the Federal forestry service.

On leaving the Government service, Mr. Levison became chief forester for the New York City and Brooklyn parks in 1907 and planned and developed many of the city's large parks during his ten years' service.

He lectured at Yale's Forestry School, the New School for Social Research and the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and was the author of "Studies of Trees" and "The Home Book of Trees and Shrubs."

Mr. Levison was a member of the Society of American Foresters, the National Geographic Society, the City Athletic Club of New York, the Yale Club of New York, and the North Shore Country Club.

Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Myrtle Powell, who was his second wife; three daughters: Mrs. Ephraim London, Mrs. Ralph Brendler, and Mrs. Walter Eytan, whose husband is Israel Ambassador to France; and two grandsons, Peter Horace London and Llewellyn Brendler.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Koven, Anderston Drive, Lancaster, N.B., are in Miami Beach, Florida, for several weeks, at the Sans Souci Hotel.

The engagement of Miss Esther Zelda Koven, daughter of Mrs. S. Koven, of Saint John, N.B., and the late Sidney Koven, to Jack Lionel Lecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lecker, 6565 Macdonald Avenue, Montreal, Quebec, is announced. The wedding will take place in June.

Mitchell Franklin, Lancaster Avenue, Saint John, N.B., was honoured at a gathering of the Israel Maritime League, in the Jewish Community Centre. He is a national president of the League, and was presented with two Israeli navy flags, mounted in leather, for his service to this cause. A. Calp, an honorary vice-president of the League, and chairman of the Regional Zionist Men's Organization of Canada, made the presentation. Dr. Joseph Tanzman, O.B.E., presided in the absence of Samuel Babb, due to illness. Mendel Ladsky, national director of the Canadian Maritime League, left Saint John prior to the meeting because of illness. Mr. Franklin said the purpose of the League, is to foster Maritime relations between Canada and Israel, and to aid in the training of seamen, and all phases of sea-faring. Mr. Franklin has been appointed chairman of a $200,000 building campaign to establish a Nautical College at Dor Israel. Refreshments were served by: Mesdames S. A. Babb, A. Calp, L. Citren, B. R. Guss, Harold Rosen, and Joseph Tanzman. The chairman was assisted by Ben Gomberg, I. J. Davis, and William Meltzer. Mr. Franklin was present at a reception in Halifax given by the Israel Trade Commissioner, Yehuda Narkiss, when seventy carloads of Israeli oranges were unloaded. Many dignitaries were present, representing government, Boards of Trade, press, radio, and television stations. A film in colour about Israel was shown for the first time in Canada.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Rosen, of Saint John, N. B., were in Montreal, Quebec, for the fortieth wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Rosen, 4000 St. Catherine Road, Montreal.

Bnai Brith Hillel Foundation, at Dalhousie University, in Halifax, N. S.; presented a Hillel benefit program, in honor of Jewish Music Month. Miss Carol Lee Cohen was master of ceremonies. Songs of Israel were sung by members of the Hillel Choir: Melvin Brown, Emily Champagne, Harold Cohen, Lina Gillis, Susan Gordon, Sandy Houston, Zackie Jacobson, David Levine, Judy Newman, Fred Ross, Sherman Rubin and Judy Wood; and conducted by Harold Cohen. Dances of Israel were presented by Marim Kohler and Judy Newman. Vicki Hammerling sang. Israel films were shown.

Mrs. Esther Sadofsky, the widow of Joseph E. Sadofsky, and a resident of the Halifax Nursing Home, in Halifax, N. S., died on Wednesday, January 31, at the Victoria General Hospital, at the age of seventy years. She is survived by two sons: Harold, of Chicago, Ill.; Ralph, of Halifax, N.S.; and two daughters: Mrs. H. Gordon (Dorothy), of Halifax; and Mrs. M. Raber (Reta), of Winnipeg, Man. Funeral services took place from the Halifax Funeral Home. Burial was at the Baron de Hirsch Cemetery. Born in Lithuania, Mrs. Sadofsky came to Canada in 1908 and resided in Sydney for many years. She came to Halifax about ten years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sherman, 121 Connaught Avenue, Halifax, N. S., were visited by her mother, Mrs. L. Gordner, of Windsor, Ont.; and her aunt, Mrs. S. Baizer, of Montreal, Que.

Halifax Chapter of Hadassah was organized in 1926 by the late Mrs. M. Baylin, of Halifax, who was the first president. Mrs. Julius Silverman is the present president. To celebrate the thirty-fifth anniversary of its founding, the chapter gave a banquet in Beth Israel auditorium, convened by Mesdames S. Herschorn, M. Weiner, and J. Nathanson. Mesdames Charles Arron, Maurice Shelfman, A. Avromovitch were in charge of the display of Hadassah projects. Mrs. Arnold (Carol), Feder, soprano; and Julius Silverman, violinist, gave a program, accompanied on the piano by Anton Los.

• MIZRACHI WOMEN'S ORGANIZATION •

Schlomoh Avigdor Lieff Chapter meets on February 17, at 8.00 p.m., at the home of Mrs. E. Goldberger, 856 Dollard Avenue, to celebrate Purim. Friends invited. Mrs. A. Malina is president. Hebrew Ladies Sick Benefit Society president, Mrs. I. R. Rosenberg, 3385 Barclay Avenue, announced at their closing last season that they had completed two pledges on behalf of the Haifa Community Center of Mizrachi Women, $3,000 for the workshop and air-raid shelter; $5,000 for the nurses' room. Mrs. M. E. Stern, 5565 Stirling Avenue, and Mrs. I. I. Lieff, 3432 Grey Avenue, accepted the final cheque. The Haifa Community Center is the only religious social and recreational center in Haifa. It affords facilities for kindergarten to the Golden Age Club; amateur orchestra to the Torah discussion groups. Mrs. Lieff expressed special thanks for the completion of the pledge many months before the due date. The new president is Mrs. S. J. Snitzer, 7915 Birnam Avenue, and the Hebrew Ladies Sick Benefit Society of Montreal have undertaken a new project, a room in the Beersheba Girls' Vocational High School of the Mizrachi Women which will combine the best in modern vocational training with regular high school subjects in a religious atmosphere. The ground-breaking ceremony took place in Beersheba. Mrs. Hyman Bessin, 438 Daly Avenue, Ottawa, Ontario, former national president, broke the sod on behalf of the Mizrachi Women. Jean Marie Dery, Canadian Charge d'Affaires; the American Cultural Attache, Dr. Joseph Burg; Israeli Minister of Social Welfare, Rabbi S. M. Zambrowsky, were other representatives present. The building will be completed in time for the new school year in September. Officers of the Hebrew Ladies Sick Benefit Society are: Mesdames I. R. Rosenberg, 3385 Barclay Avenue, president; N. A. Plotkin, 4375 La Peltrie Avenue, honorary president; S. J. Snitzer, 7915 Birnam Avenue, vice-president; J. E. Turewetz, 5352 Coolbrook Avenue, past president; H. R. Dolman, 3070 Linton Avenue; and B. Ruthen, 2276 Mantha Street. Mrs. Hyman Bessin, of Ottawa, who attended the recent Zionist Congress in Jerusalem, addressed the membership meeting in Montreal. Mrs. Bessin is former Mizrachi national president and now national membership chairman, and was the only delegate to represent the organization in Israel. While there she participated in the ground-breaking ceremony for the Beersheba Girls Vocational High School and Community Centre which will receive between 200 and 250 girls, many of whom are daughters of new immigrants from countries where the educational facilities and opportunities for social contacts are at a minimum. sation. This was an obvious allusion to Israel's policy.

Dr. Davis appealed to the private voluntary agencies active in the refugee field to contribute funds to a program of increased vocational training, scholarships, and relief services for the Palestine refugees.

The conference, called to review the work of the recently concluded fund-raising drive of the World Refugee Year and to plan for the future, heard reports on refugee problems old and new, says the New York Times. The subjects of discussion ranged from the Armenians in Greece who fled from the Turks in the Nineteen Twenties to the thousands of Congolese tribesmen now homeless in the Province of Kasai.

CONFERENCE ON JEWISH CLAIMS

claims in that category awaited adjudication on September 30, 1960. Cumbersome and long-drawn procedures have led to postponements, lasting for years in great numbers of cases. Nazi victims in the scores of thousands have suffered in body and mind for as long as two decades from the effects of imprisonment, mistreatment, and torture, while their justifiable claims for compensation are subjected to prolonged delays by German indemnification offices."

Dr. Goldmann expressed the deepest disappointment that the German Government has failed to provide compensation for Nazi victims who were able to leave eastern Europe only after October 1, 1953. Refugees arriving after the Hungarian uprising are also in the same position. The 1953 date is the cut-off deadline for the technical eligibility of stateless Nazi victims to register claims under the Federal Indemnification Law.

"The claims of those victims have the greatest possible merit, since they were imprisoned in Nazi concentration camps and suffered privations in the post-war years. Their moral claims for indemnification are every bit as strong as those of claimants who were in a position to file in time," Dr. Goldmann stressed. "We are calling upon the German Federal Republic to acknowledge the equity and justice of these claims, and to take the necessary steps to provide some measure of compensation for those refugees."

A $7,000,000 program for rebuilding Jewish communities ravaged at Nazi hands, "that will live on far beyond the day when the curtain falls on our activities," was described by Moses A. Leavitt, treasurer of the Claims Conference. The $7,000,000 program represents allocations granted over the years for the construction, expansion, equipment, and repair of about 400 homes for the aged, children's and youth homes, hospitals and clinics, Jewish schools and seminaries, kindergartens, summer camps, community and youth centers, religious institutions, and the like. The great bulk of the projects were concentrated in 15 European countries, a limited share going to overseas lands sheltering many Nazi victims. A substantial number of projects were completed in 1960.

"In western and central Europe," Mr. Leavitt said, "scarcely a Jewish community under former Nazi occupation may now be found which cannot point to one capital project or more aided by Conference funds. In many Jewish communities, the tempo of organized activity has notably quickened under the impact of new buildings and facilities provided, and reconstruction with Conference aid is moving ahead on a scale unprecedented in Jewish life." Mr. Leavitt pointed out that the rebuilding of the Jewish communities which suffered at Nazi hands ranked high among Conference objectives. The program included the provision of physical facilities for the care of Nazi victims and for closing in some degree the gaps inflicted by Nazi persecution on Jewish creative resources. In that context, Mr. Leavitt described the Conference program for scholarships and fellowships.

Mr. Leavitt stated that 1,240 grants have been issued so far, the scholarship grants going to students attending Jewish teachers colleges and for those specializing in Jewish studies, and fellowships to scholars conducting independent research in Jewish studies, arts, and literature. A number of Conference Fellows have become prize winners with the aid of the grants. Best known among them is Andre Schwarz-Bart who received a fellowship to write the novel, "The Last of the Just," which later won the Prix Goncourt, France's foremost literary prize, and is currently number three on American best-seller lists. Other recent prize-winners include Nathan Rappaport, awarded the Alfred Steele Memorial Prize for Sculpture; and Dr. Rudolf Frank who won the State Literature Prize at Basel, Switzerland.

The following persons are serving as members of the Conference Board of Directors for 1961, from these organizations:

Wanted: New, Young Leadership To Step In And Take Over

BY JACK SHINDMAN, OF TORONTO, IMMEDIATE PAST PRESIDENT OF THE HEBREW FREE LOAN SOCIETY, WHO ON HIS RECENT RETIREMENT WAS SUCCEEDED BY I. CAPLAN AS PRESIDENT

Maimonides, the great Jewish philosopher of the 12th century, wrote that there are seven different degrees of helping your fellow man. The first and simplest degree is that of giving a direct donation. He goes on to describe the other degrees until he gets to the highest degree of charity and that is the kind of giving in which you help the recipient to help himself. And in effect, this is exactly what the G'milath Chasodim stands for.

The Hebrew Free Loan Movement is based upon a belief that the best way to help your fellow man, without making him the object of charity, is to help him to stand on his own feet. And that is what we do in the day-to-day activity of our society. When we make a loan to an individual to help him establish himself in business, we are helping to insure that this man is being helped to provide for himself and his family and that he will not become a financial burden to the community. During the past year the G'milath Chasodim served a total of 467 people and granted 405 loans. The amount of money that was granted was $153,730 and what is most significant is that the organization collected $165,656 against outstanding loans. This is significant since it indicates the wide number of people who are involved in receiving assistance from the organization, and at the same time indicates the extent to which we can depend upon the repayment of these loans.

The major item of importance is that our money is part of a revolving fund so that the original sums of monies that were contributed to us from various sources for the benefit of the community are used over and over again. The problem in our organization, though, is not necessarily the need for more applicants or the need for additional funds to be made available for loans but rather we need new people to be involved in the guidance and direction of the program. Just as in other agencies throughout the Jewish community, we are finding new young leadership taking over the reins of the organization, so we must make an effort in this coming year to involve new young men in the G'milath Chasodim.

It is our job to seek out interested persons and give them an opportunity to work and learn about the operations of our organization so that they can eventually take over this responsibility, just as we as parents want to see our children take over businesses and give us the leisure of a partial retirement. So, we would like to see them take over the guidance of our community agencies and permit us the opportunity to retire to the side lines while they perform the active job of running the organization. This is the job that we must face in this coming year and I sincerely hope that each and everyone of us will make a determined effort to bring in new young leadership.

Z.O.A Head Clarifies W.Z.C. Stand On Immigration To Israel

Max Bressler, president of the Zionist Organization of America, who attended the World Zionist Congress in Jerusalem as head of the ZOA delegation, said that "it was the consensus of the Congress that insofar as immigration into Israel from the West is concerned, no mass immigration is to be expected." He added that "in the words of Premier David Ben-Gurion, which we regret were misconstrued here, the Congress aimed at the encouragement of young Jews from all over the free world in a spirit of American pioneering to help in the upbuilding of the young and democratic State of Israel."

Mr. Bressler reported that "while the Congress attempted to stimulate Western aliyah (settlement), — its resolutions on this question implied not even parmanent mass settlement on the part of American Jews but a year or two of pioneering activities by enterprising youth to help build the country. Speaker after speaker at the World Zionist Congress, representing all party viewpoints, conceded that immigration from the free Western countries can come only as a result of Hebrew education," he said at the first Congress report rally, sponsored by the Zionist Organization of America, at the Hotel Commodore, in New York.

Mr. Bressler denied categorically the reports published in America of an alleged "political alliance of the Zionist Organization of America with the General Zionist party of Israel. His denial was issued in connection with the deadlock at the Zionist Congress over the composition of the World Zionist Executive and the chairmanship of the American Section of the Jewish Agency for Israel between the World Confederation of General Zionists, headed by Dr. Emanuel Neumann, and the World Confederation faction which is under the joint chairmanship of Mrs. Samuel W. Halprin and Dr. Israel Goldstein.

"I want to take this occasion to deny categorically that there existed at any time since the establishment of the State of Israel any sort of political alliance or political identification of the ZOA with the General Zionist party or any other political party in Israel or anywhere else. I want to emphasize once and for all that the charge that is being made either deliberately or otherwise that the ZOA's relationship with the General Zionists in Israel implies interference in Israel's internal affairs is false and a distortion of the facts," Mr. Bressler said.

The speaker further pointed out that "time and again since the establishment of the State of Israel every ZOA administration has reiterated our position on this issue. The Zionist movement has always included Zionist groups and organizations throughout the world, including Israel. This constitutes the basic structure of the World Zionist Organization as it was never intended to convert the world Zionist movement into an exclusively Diaspora (lands outside of Israel) movement."

Further clarifying the relationship of the ZOA with the General Zionists in Israel, Mr. Bressler said:

"All political parties in Israel, including the General Zionists, represent in the Knesset the views and interests of Israeli citizens and any of them would resent any advice or interference on the part of any outside Zionist bodies in any matter affecting the internal affairs of the State of Israel. The Knesset and the State of Israel have clearly defined jurisdictions which are jealously guarded.

"The relationship of the Zionist Organization of America with the General Zionists in Israel as well as in other lands are strictly confined to the sphere of Zionist activities. The Zionist Congress and the Knesset are two separate and distinct bodies whose compositions and functions are distinctly different. The Zionist groups and organizations in Israel which are represented in the Knesset have not lost their status as Zionist groups affiliated with the World Zionist Organization. Both in its own right and as a member of the Confederation of General Zionists, the ZOA was never involved in the internal political affairs of the State of Israel or of any other country."

The ZOA president emphasized that the alliance of the ZOA with the General Zionists "is only in the sphere of the Zionist program aimed at the unity of the Jewish people, the promotion and furtherance of Hebrew language and culture, common religious traditions and history, and the centrality of Israel in the cultural, religious, and spiritual life of the Jews throughout the world; helping in the economic upbuilding of the State of Israel and its security so that it may fulfill its historic mission to be of service not only to its people but to all humanity."

He made it clear that "every individual Zionist and Zionist group owe their political allegiance and loyalties to the countries of which they are an integral part in citizenship." Reverting to the theme of immigration and education which were in the center of all discussions at the Congress, Mr. Bressler voiced his viewpoint that "without Hebrew education immigration is unthinkable."

The speaker said that "the Congress rightly emphasized that Jewish and Zionist education in the Diaspora constitute the major aim of the Zionist movement at the present time. The Congress appealed to Jews living outside of Israel to send their children of high school or university level for at least a year's study and work in Israel. The broadening of the trend of youth pilgrimages and Bar Mitzvah journeys were also urged."

Asserting that "we Zionists realize that we have been remiss in our duty to the ultimate goal of Zionism by neglecting intensive Hebrew education in America," the speaker voiced confidence that the Zionist movement in this country will now, following the Zionist Congress, "bestir itself with the problems of Jewish education, help create Hebrew Day Schools and intensify adult Hebrew education."

Labor Zionists Denounce A.J.C. Head For Call To Dissolve Movement

A demand that the American Jewish Congress disassociate itself from remarks made recently on the Zionist movement by Dr. Joachim Prinz, Congress president, was expressed in New York by the Labor Zionist Organization of America, one of the organizations that helped found the Congress and one of its national affiliates. In a statement adopted by its Central Committee, the Labor Zionist Organization declared that Dr. Prinz has done a "grave disservice" to the American Jewish Congress by "exploiting his office, the platform of the Congress Governing Council, and its public relations facilities to advance personal views that the Congress governing bodies or its officers have never discussed or adopted as their own."

Nearly all the national organizations affiliated with Congress are Zionist, as are many thousands of individual members who belong to it, the statement asserts. "Dr. Prinz's pronouncements are therefore a gratuitous insult to the overwhelming majority of his own organization as well as to the American Zionist movement as a whole, which is the largest organized movement in American Jewish life, with more than 700,000 members and with a program of cultural, educational, youth and community relations work, in addition to all that it does in support of Israel upbuilding, that takes second place to none. No one is more aware than the Zionist movement itself of the need to broaden this program, and it has been engaged in a process of seriously thinking through the ways in which it must meet the challenges and needs of contemporary Jewish life," it is further stated.

"As an individual," the statement goes on to say, "Dr. Prinz is entitled to any views he may wish to hold, however erroneous we may believe them to be. He has ample opportunity as a Rabbi and otherwise to give them expression. But when the impression is conveyed, however inadvertently, that these are the views of the American Jewish Congress, we must solemnly protest and we must insist that Congress disavow them."

"No less serious," the Labor Zionists declare, "is the disservice that Rabbi Prinz has rendered the cause of Jewish unity by his ill-considered statements about the Zionist movement. Along with him, we and the Zionist movement as a whole would like to see established in America the broadest possible framework of organized Jewry, democratically constituted, for joint endeavor in all those areas that can further the upbuilding of Israel; the strengthening of the bond between our two communities and with Jews in all parts of the world; and the enhancement of the Jewish cultural, spiritual, and community life in the United States.

"The Zionist movement has frequently asserted its readiness to engage in such an enterprise. Indeed, here in America it was instrumental in bringing about such a measure of unity, albeit on a more limited scale, through the establishment of the Conference of Presidents of National Jewish Organizations. The World Zionist Congress, held recently in Jerusalem, was attended by representatives of scores of organizations and Jewish community bodies in all parts of the world who were not hitherto officially associated with the Zionist movement, and efforts are being made to enlarge the affiliation and participation of such bodies in the common tasks.

"Since Dr. Prinz professes the desire to see the same ends achieved, and would even take over, lock-stock-and barrel, the program of the Zionist movement for this purpose, it is difficult to see how he expects to be taken seriously when, in the same breath, he calls upon the Zionist movement to dissolve after having pronounced a death warrant on it.

"Surely his objective would have been better served if he had sincerely indicated the common responsibilities of all Jews, Zionists, and others, and if he had joined in the call for all to pool their resources to pursue these responsibilities together, through whatever joint instrumentalities need to be created for the purpose. Certainly, not even Dr. Prinz expects that such a meaningful joint enterprise can come into being without the goodwill and fullest participation of the Zionist movement, which is a vital factor in Jewish life here and throughout the world."
